RECEIVING DAMAGED GOODS

With many contributing variables surrounding the safe mobility of fragile products throughout the glass and door industry, it's sometimes possible that damage may occur to a Prestige Window and Door product during transport. When receiving Prestige Window and Door products, recipients are required to report, detail and photograph damaged items and submit the recorded info (including a purchase receipt) within seventy two hours of receiving the product.

CONDENSATION, MOISTURE, MOLD

Condensation occurs when warm, dense & moist air collides with a colder surface, thus causing it to rapidly cool. The cooling effect resulting from this thermal collision causes moisture within the warm air to condense and consequently, it may form visible water droplets, ice and possibly mold if left unmaintained for extended periods of time.

Until humidity levels become sufficiently reduced in the warmer air, and the temperature differential between thermal collisions becomes adequately minimized, condensation effects may continue and are not indicative of a faulty Prestige Window and Door product.

Visible condensation is the result of thermodynamic activity amid high moisture environments while being left uncorrected for extended periods of time.

To minimize the tendency of excessive condensation, customers are required to reduce the humidity levels of the warmer air and sufficiently reduce the water supply to the atmosphere (ie: use dehumidifiers, reduce washing, laundry, showers and cooking with open water, cover fish tanks, relocate moist plants, etc.) In addition to moisture level reduction techniques, customers should increase environmental airflow to provide moist air with an escape route from the affected environment. Sufficient airflow can typically be achieved by activating a dwelling's HVAC system or creating a slight opening near the affected zone.

GLASS BREAKAGE

Prestige Windows & Doors Ltd warranty does not include breakage, cracks, or shattering unless the product was initially delivered in an already failed state. (see Receiving Damaged Goods)

There are several common scenarios where glass products become damaged, yet not being covered by warranty. For example: a) Glass damage caused by excessive mechanical stresses resulting from inadequate clearance of 4-9 mm surrounding all sides of an installed product. b) Window blinds installed less than 5 cm from the glass. c) Glass failures due to poor maintenance. (eg: clogged window drainways by applied finishes & foreign debris left uncorrected)

In the event of seal failure between panes of glass, Prestige reserves the right to investigate the failure prior to warranty approval.
